Quality criteria

- › Relevance to research in organic agriculture
- › Product must be ready to enter into a process of communication
- › Required metadata information must be correct
- › All types of documents are accepted
- › Expressions of opinions are only accepted as long as they focus on research in organic agriculture
- › All statements should be appropriately justified (either through own research results or references).

Registration

Register

When you register, you will be able to deposit papers and subscribe to email alerts. You will also be able to view documents marked [Registered users only].

No charge is made for registering with us or using any of our services. Organic Eprints will not pass on your data to any third party.

We need a valid email address to identify you and you must choose a password and a short username to log in with. After registering an email will be sent to you. You need to click a link in that email to confirm your email address.

If you have already registered but have forgotten your username or password, click here to set a new password.

Your email address *

This must be a valid email address.

Select a username *

Request a username and remember it for later use. A username must begin with a letter and should only contain standard letters and numerals (a-z A-Z 0-9) and no spaces, such as "frodo" or "VictorBorge".

(When you have registered, you cannot change your username. Contact the archive administrator if this poses a problem.)

Select a password *

Enter a password and remember it for later use. Use a combination of uppercase and lowercase standard letters and numerals (a-z A-Z 0-9) and no spaces.

Select this option to change your subscription to email alerts. This allows you to instruct the archive to automatically e-mail you with lists of new documents deposited that match your criteria, every day, week or ..

Step 1: Chose Eprint type

EPrint Type *

Please select the most appropriate type for your deposit.

If your paper has been accepted in, for instance, a journal, but not published yet, choose the type "Journal" - on one of the next pages you can indicate that it is not yet published.

- ☐ Journal paper
Vol. & no. is cited. Not necessarily peer-reviewed.
- ☐ Journal paper in on-line journal
Same as Journal paper, except that the paper's URL (internet address) is cited.
- ☐ Newspaper or magazine article
Date of publication is cited.
- ☐ Working paper
- ☐ Preprint
A scientific paper that has not yet been accepted for publication.
- ☒ Conference paper
- ☐ Conference poster
- ☐ Oral presentation
- ☐ Proceedings
The whole proceedings collection. Not individual papers.
- ☐ Report
- ☐ Report chapter
- ☐ Thesis
A thesis or dissertation.
- ☐ Book
- ☐ Book chapter
- ☐ Web product
- ☐ Research Programme description
Description of a part of a research programme in a certain subject area, or a full programme. Link to programme website is cited, if available.
"PROGRAMME:" added in front of citation.

The paper was held at the biannual Conference of COR - The Colloquium of organic Researchers, which took place in March 2002 Aberystwyth, Wales.

Step 3: Enter abstract and subject area

Summary *

Please enter a summary in the same language as your document. You can easily copy and paste it into this box. (In rare cases the page can get messed up when copying from a Word document - then copy from a document saved as 'text only' instead).

On national as well as on EU level, research funds should be directed substantially towards organic farming in order to improve the economic and ecological performance of organic farming. The impact of research funds is very high in this field of food production, because, as yet, the potential of organic farming has been scarcely tapped by research. Integrating organic farming research into conventional research structures means disintegrating organic farming itself. Therefore, special attention should be given to how research activities are organised. National or regional centres of competence (hubs) are needed in order to provide and maintain an appropriate quality of research.

Additional Summary

Please consider entering an additional summary in another language (preferably in English if your document is in another language than English).

Document Language *

Please choose the language that the deposited document is written in. If the language is not on the list, please request that it is added in the box "Comments and Suggestions" further down.

Attaching Documents

- Ideally the full document described should be attached
- If the final, formatted version of a paper is not available: Add preprint and state this
- If there is a copyright on the papers: Make it accessible to registered users or depositor only
- If the eprint describes a book: Add eg. the table of contents and the first chapter
- Make sure the paper itself contains the full bibliographic information
- Name documents according to scientific practice (name+year)

Quality Check / Editing of Eprints

- › Spell check
- › Is the entry relevant for organic farming research ?
- › Are the bibliographical data complete ?
- › Do copyrights need to be clarified ?
- › Do links to related links work?
- › Is a document attached and is it intact; is the full text available
- › If not: Feedback to the author

What does editing imply

- › Deal with enquiries and support submitters
- › Manage Eprints (send them back to authors if wished, restructure them if needed)
- › Make a concept of the country / organisation / project hierarchy
- › Motivate authors, institutions, conferences to use organic eprints to deposit papers
- › PR among specialised media (articles, press releases, other media contacts)
- › Instruction for Organic Eprints in the national language
- › National research portal as an entrance to Organic Eprints
- › Clarify copyright situation for major international / national journals
- › Enter eprints in order to reach a critical mass

Organic Market Data Collection in Europe - Current State and Prospects

On the 24th of February 2005 Toralf Richter and Helga Willer from FiBL together with Ulrich Hamm from Kassel University held a seminar at Biofach in Nuremberg, Germany.

The objective of the seminar was to present the current state of organic market data collection in Europe, including recommendations for future data collection in the area.

The presentation can be found at Organic Eprints together with other publications and presentations from the EISfOM project.

New EISfOM reports published

(December 2004) Two reports from the EISfOM project are now available from this web site.

The first report contains proposals for the development, harmonization and quality assurance of organic data collection and processing systems (DCPS).

The second report provides an overview of international statistics and data collection systems within the food supply chain.
